Launch of the Tree Policy Consultation

The draft updated tree policy is now available for review and comment. The consultation goes live today (14th) and is available at <https://yoursay.southend.gov.uk/tree-policy-consultation> and will run until the 9th October 2020.

The draft document describes the current tree canopy cover in Southend and how Council managed trees will be inspected and maintained over the coming years. It also sets out how and why trees are pruned, the circumstances when they will not be pruned and the reasons why trees unfortunately sometimes have to be removed.

Maintaining and enhancing the tree canopy cover in the borough is an essential consideration in the document, and the approach to ongoing tree planting is also set out.

Warning over 'dangerous fake' anti-anxiety drugs

There is concern about a rising number of "dangerous fake" illicit drugs being sold as benzodiazepines, Public Health England has said. Experts say despite warnings, illegal use of fake pills among young people appears to be growing, with reports of children as young as 11 being treated for abusing a painkiller similar to Xanax.

Coronavirus linked to type-1 diabetes in children following cluster of new cases

Scientists have warned that Covid-19 could cause type-1 diabetes in children, following a rise in new cases at the height of the pandemic. Hospitals in north-west London recorded more than twice the number of new-onset patients they would normally have expected, with the majority arriving in a serious state, according to researchers from Imperial College London.

Wear facemask or you could be fined £3,200, public warned

Fines of up to £3,200 for failure to wear a facemask will be introduced to deter risky behaviour, while on-the-spot penalties of up to £10,000 will also be levied on the organisers of illegal parties, the Government has announced. It comes as the Prime Minister announced the further relaxation of restrictions in England from Saturday (15th), including in theatres, small wedding receptions and sport venues.

3.4m people in England have had COVID-19

Some 3.4 million people in England have been infected with COVID-19, a figure far higher than previously estimated, a study by Imperial College London suggests. The figure is many times higher than the tally of known cases for the entire UK as posted by John Hopkins University in the US – whose aggregated numbers have become the main reference for monitoring the disease – and which listed the country's case numbers at 315,546 as of Thursday (13th) morning.

England's COVID contact-tracing app will reach 70% of those at risk

The re-designed NHS contact-tracing app, which begins trials in the Isle of Wight, will correctly identify seven out of 10 people who spend more than 15 minutes within two metres of another app user who has tested positive for coronavirus and warn them to self-isolate.

Unauthorised camping and littering in Britain's beauty spots increase

Unauthorised camping and littering in Britain's national parks has increased significantly this summer as more people seeking 'staycation' summer holidays are finding camping sites full, according to the National Parks Authority and the National Trust. The effect is similar to fly-tipping and has now become known as 'fly-camping'.

UK records highest daily number of cases for nearly two months

The UK has recorded the highest number of daily coronavirus cases in nearly two months. In the 24 hours up to 9am on Tuesday 11th, a further 1,148 confirmed coronavirus cases were reported, the highest number since 1,221 new cases were announced on 21 June. Meanwhile, it is reported that three different daily coronavirus death tolls are to be published after a compromise between ministers and scientists, with the one favoured by ministers likely to show a big reduction in daily deaths, bringing it close to single figures rather than the dozens usually reported on weekdays.

More than 1,000 cases recorded in UK for fifth day in a row

The UK has seen a spike in coronavirus cases for the fifth day running. Latest figures show there were 1,012 lab-confirmed cases of coronavirus on Saturday (15th), down from Friday's figure of 1,441, which was the highest daily rise for two months, but marks the fifth day in a row that more than 1,000 new cases have been recorded.

Local lockdowns and home working 'more popular'

The public's appetite for local lockdowns and working from home if a coronavirus vaccine cannot be found appears to be growing, research suggests. A King's College London survey reveals that 87 per cent of people questioned said that they would accept local lockdowns being imposed in the future, with 85 per cent saying they would accept their own local area being subject to such limitations

Flu kills five times more than coronavirus

Flu and pneumonia are killing five times as many people as coronavirus at present, with Covid deaths at their lowest since the end of March, official figures show. There were 193 deaths reported in the week ending 31 July that had coronavirus mentioned on the death certificate, continuing three months of falls since a weekly peak of 8,758 in April. By contrast, 928 people died of flu or pneumonia in the last week of July, slightly fewer than previous years and the seventh consecutive week in which more people had died of flu or pneumonia than coronavirus.

Parents urged to stay up-to-date with children's vaccinations

Parents are being urged to make sure their children are up-to-date with all their routine vaccinations, as the LGA said high vaccine uptake could prevent infections and stop pressure being piled on the NHS. It has called for government to set out a plan to ensure children get the vaccinations they need and help GPs, clinics and schools to cope with demand.

Reviews of coronavirus deaths among health and care staff 'to be kept secret'

Ministers have been accused of trying to cover up the findings from investigations into hundreds of health and social care worker deaths linked to coronavirus, after it emerged the results will not be made public. Medical examiners across England and Wales have been asked by ministers to investigate more than 620 deaths of frontline staff that occurred during the pandemic, but the Department of Health and Social Care said the results will be kept secret with the aim of helping local hospitals to learn and improve protection for staff.

Reopening of theatres, casinos and bowling alleys

Theatres, casinos and bowling alleys have reopened as part of the latest easing of lockdown restrictions in England. The relaxed measures will also mean tattoo studios, beauty salons, spas and hairdressers can offer additional services, including face treatments such as eyebrow threading, as the Government introduces bigger fines for failing to wear a mask in places where it is compulsory.

Public Health England 'to be replaced'

Public Health England (PHE) is reportedly to be scrapped and replaced by a new body specifically designed to protect the country against a pandemic by early next month. Health and Social Care Secretary Matt Hancock is set to announce this week (16th) a merger of the pandemic response work of PHE with NHS Test and Trace into a new body, called the National Institute for Health Protection, modelled on Germany's Robert Koch Institute.

Southend Hospital has waved goodbye to its final Covid-19 patient

Source: Echo News <https://www.echo-news.co.uk/news/18652971.southend-hospitals-final-covid-patient-discharged/>

Southend Hospital has waved goodbye to its final Covid-19 patient, as the team ready themselves for the potential of a second wave.

The patient was discharged from Southend Hospital on Thursday (13th), which means the hospital is no longer treating any Covid positive patients, although more could arrive in the coming days and weeks given the ever-changing nature of the pandemic.

The team have treated some remarkable Covid survivors during the peak of the outbreak, including Shoebury's Felix Khor, who left the hospital after almost 11 weeks as a patient.

Head of the Southend Emergency Department, has welcomed the latest news, but warns it's not time to take our foot off the pedal with the threat of a second wave looming upon us. He said: "For the first time in five months we have no Covid patients left at the hospital, which is absolutely fantastic news. Everyone has worked so hard and the last couple of months have of course been difficult for everyone.

"With that being said - now is not the time to be complacent. We still need to be very, very careful, I do think there could be a second wave so we need to get ready.

"This does give us a bit of time and the first hit has prepared us for the second should it happen. If it does happen it's only going to be a matter of time, maybe around October. It's difficult then because it is flu season, so it's hard to differentiate between a normal cold and the coronavirus.

"It's not over yet, but everyone has been doing so well. It's definitely a step in the right direction."

Southend Hospital bosses confirmed on Friday (14th) that they weren't treating any Covid positive patients, however a spokesman reiterated it could change at any moment.

The spokesman said: "At this moment, Princess Anne Ward and the rest of the hospital has no Covid-19 patients, which is cautious good news.

"With new patients being admitted and tested daily, that situation can easily change. It has been hugely positive to see numbers decrease and all of our staff have continued to provide high quality care to our patients during these challenging times.

"We've all come a long way in the past couple of months but Covid-19 is still likely to be with us for some time. We must all continue to follow socially distance, keep washing our hands and reduce the risk of spreading the infection."

The head has now urged patients to visit their GP for longer term issues first unless it's an emergency, in the hope of avoiding overcrowding in A&E.

He added: "Before we had to focus on our Covid patients during the height of the outbreak, but we're now seeing a rise in visitors with longer-term problems which they should see the GP for first."

"We're at less of a capacity now and want to avoid crowding in A&E and we have to keep at least one metre apart. There is still a risk, so please see your GP if you can."

Vaccines

The Government has secured early access to 90 million doses of 2 COVID-19 vaccines should they prove safe and effective. The new in-principle agreements include 60 million doses of the Novavax vaccine and 30 million doses of the Janssen vaccine. Ministers have also agreed in principle to co-fund a ground-breaking global clinical study of the Janssen vaccine. The next phase of clinical trials is expected to begin later this year and will look at whether providing two doses of their vaccines provides long-term protection against coronavirus.

Car sharing

The Department for Transport (DfT) is encouraging people to plan their journey if it requires them to share a car with another household. They are asked that they follow government guidance to help them keep safe. The advice for the public is to:

- try not to share a vehicle with those outside their household or support bubble
- if this is not possible, share the transport with the same people each time
- open the windows for ventilation
- wear a face covering for the duration of the journey
- consider seating arrangements to maximise distance between people in the vehicle – e.g. leave seats some free.
- clean their car between journeys including door handles and other areas that people may touch

Calls for ban on public BBQ's after spate on Shoebury East Beach

Source: Echo News: <https://www.echo-news.co.uk/news/18630748.calls-ban-public-bbqs-spate-shoebury-east-beach/>

A ban on barbecues at Southend's beaches, parks and outdoor spaces could come into place after hoards of residents were spotted cooking over coals.

Independent Shoebury councillor Nick Ward was shocked to see roughly 40 people lighting up barbecues at the well-loved East Beach during the weekend of the 1st and 2nd August, which saw temperatures climb to a scorching 32 degrees. And with the weekend (8-9th) set for a second dose of scorching weather, Mr Ward is preparing to put forward a motion to the council calling for a barbecue ban across Southend.

Environmentalist finds 4kg of rubbish and urine while cleaning Southend beaches

Source: Echo News <https://www.echo-news.co.uk/news/18630375.environmentalist-finds-4kg-rubbish-urine-cleaning-southend-beaches/>

An environmentalist was left horrified after picking up more than 4kg of rubbish – including PPE and a can full of urine – on Southend's beaches and she has been collecting litter left on the beaches every morning since February, but she was dismayed by the amount of waste she discovered along the coastline on Tuesday (11th).

Visitors to the beaches are still failing to put rubbish in bins or taking their waste with them. The bag was too heavy for her to carry. It contained two nappies, a box of firelighters for disposable barbecues, clothing, six plastic gloves, over two dozen hand wipes, three masks, plasters, netting from plastic toys, tissues, cans – including one full of urine – food trays, plastic hoops from beer cans, drink cups and cigarette butts. It's worse when it's stuffed into the rocks when there are bins provided just a few feet away. She is disappointed to see a lack of respect for the environment and is pleading for people to think about the environment they are in and have respect for others and our wonderful town. She hopes more of the community will volunteer their services and help to clean our beaches. Many people stop her daily to say how grateful they are for her efforts and how much they'd like to join her. It is not only extremely rewarding but great for mental health.

b) Amazon Prime

A member received a call from a very friendly, helpful lady who said that as he had not paid his bill, his Amazon prime account would be closed in the next 24 hours. He was asked if he would like to pay now by credit card. The member doesn't have amazon prime so he declined, but someone may be tricked into giving their card details. The number she called from was 02820669331 which the member could not find on any tracking service.

c) Amazon Prime

After the above member received the Amazon Prime scam, he received another call from an American woman saying that his Amazon prime account was closing in 8 hours unless he called a certain number and made a payment. Of course, he ignored it. The number she called from was 05610968692, again untraceable.

3) Cold Calling

We have been contacted by a resident as he has had a cold caller. Please be aware and see the below information from our member:

About just under an hour ago (20/8 6.00pm approximately), I had a knock at the door from a young man, guess aged about 24, asking if I wanted any jobs done. He had a strong Irish accent, probably from the south of Ireland, and was wearing wellington boots, shorts and top. I had six bags of garden waste ready for collection at the edge of my drive way and he offered to remove them for me but I explained I already had an arrangement with the Council for which I had paid. This did not stop him pressing home that he could remove them for a better price and I told him again I had already arranged their disposal. He finally accepted what I had said and left. I would emphasise he was not aggressive at any time but did not initially accept what he was told. I did notice he was carrying some papers that were printed 'Receipt' but I was unable to see the text. He did not appear to call at my next-door neighbour going towards the sea front and that could suggest there may have been two involved calling at every other property but that is purely a guess on my part.

13) A127 The Bell Junction Improvement – Commencement

Construction work for the A127 The Bell Junction improvement scheme shall commence from 1 September and continue until Summer 2021. The contractor, Eurovia Infrastructure Ltd, will be carrying out the works and will comply with current Covid-19 government guidance.

The mobilisation period is underway and the signals team are carrying out work to the traffic signals on Sunday (23rd), which will require a number of lane closures at various points around the junction between 7am and 4pm.

As usual with junction improvements the contractor is providing a Public Liaison Officer (PLO) to keep drivers, local residents, businesses and key stakeholders (including taxis and busses) informed about the works and handle and manage any day-to-day enquiries.

The £5m project aims to improve the air quality and traffic flow across this key junction into and out of the town and make it easier for mobility-impaired people, disabled people and those with pushchairs to cross the highway. The majority of the funding for The Bell junction improvement (£4.3m) is from the Government's Local Growth Fund, with the remainder coming from the Council's Capital budget.

The scheme involves:

- Building a new dedicated left-turn lane onto Rochford Road;
- Extending the right-turn lane onto Hobblythick Lane;
- Improving pedestrian facilities on Rochford Road by providing a traffic-signal pedestrian crossing;
- Improving pedestrian facilities on Hobblythick Lane by providing a new pedestrian island;
- Banning the right-turn onto Rochford Road, in order to free up more "green light" time for motorists going straight ahead along the A127 in both directions, and improve pedestrian facilities;
- Removing the footbridge, which does not comply with disability discrimination legislation because of the lack of ramps.
- Introducing attractive new landscaping in the green space.

The contractor has advised they propose to commence the works on Hobblythick Lane by constructing the new pedestrian island and moving kerb lines. The footbridge is proposed to be removed during the weekend of 18 September, for which two overnight road closures will be in place, similar to when the Kent Elms footbridge was removed.

Once the Hobblythick Lane work is complete, the contractor will work their way around the junction installing new pedestrian crossings on A127 and Rochford Road. They will then move onto installing the new dedicated slip lane into Rochford Road and extending the right-hand turn into Hobblythick Lane. The last thing to complete will be resurfacing the carriageway and commissioning the traffic signals.

During these works the contractor will be providing school crossing patrol officers across the A127 during term times. The officers will be either on the east or west of the junction, depending on construction and pedestrian management.

Eurovia have considered pedestrian safety during the construction works and are proposing to keep to 2m distancing rules. Pedestrian access will be provided to residents and businesses, however you will appreciate it will be necessary to have pedestrian diversion routes, especially whilst working at the existing crossings. Pedestrian diversions will be clearly signed.

As with previous junction improvements, the majority of the works will be undertaken during the day. When it is necessary to undertake overnight works, ward councillors, members, residents, businesses and drivers will be informed in advance.

In order to minimise delays to traffic, the contractor has been asked to maintain two lanes of traffic on the A127 as much as possible. To help with this, the small island on the Southend bound carriageway, separating the ahead movement and the right-hand turn into Hobbeythick Lane, is being removed to provide more working room. Off-peak lane closures will be in operation between 9am and 3pm.

The contractor's welfare unit will be located on the green space north of the junction with their main compound located at their Progress Road Depot in Faraday Road. The compound area at Nestuda Way will be used for storing materials and plant equipment.

TV Licences for Over-75's

As many of you are aware, in August 2020 there will be changes to the over-75's TV licence.

You will now only be entitled to a free TV licence if:

- You, as the licence holder are 75 years or older, AND
- You, or your partner living at the same address, receive Pension Credit.

Households that do not fall into this category will need to begin paying for a TV Licence. During August and September, TV licencing will be writing to those who need to set up a licence explaining the next steps. However, we know that criminals have been exploiting TV licencing email scams for a number of years.

TV licencing have provided an excellent FAQ on how to spot a genuine TV licence email but the five key points to look out for are:

1. Check the sender—all genuine emails are sent from donotreply@tvlicensing.co.uk or donotreply@spp.tvlicensing.co.uk.
2. Check for a postcode—if you have provided a postcode to TV licencing then their emails will include part of that postcode.
3. Check your name—TV licencing will address you by name. Be suspicious of any that address you as ' Dear Customer' or just use your email address.
4. Check the spelling & grammar—look for unusual hyphens and strange or missing full stops. They may also put capital letters on unusual words.
5. Check the links—always check where the links are taking you before you click on them—hover over them on a computer or press and hold on a phone/tablet.

REMEMBER

There are other ways of contacting TV licencing, including over the phone. There is also a helpline for over-75 TV licence queries—call 0300 790 6117.

Carnival Cruises Data Breach

Carnival Cruises have confirmed they were the victims of a data breach on August 15th 2020, meaning staff and customer personal data may have been stolen.

Carnival have not stated how many customers had been targeted, or which brands had been affected (as Carnival operate a number of big brand names including P&O, Cunard and Princess Cruises).

Anyone who is a customer is advised to change their account password using the advice provided by the National Cyber Security Centre (NCSC).

It is also suggested that they monitor their bank account for suspicious activity and be vigilant for unexpected emails.

PayPal scam via Facebook Messenger

Action Fraud have warned of a widely reported scam where criminals use Facebook Messenger pretending to be a friend or family member asking for the use of residents PayPal accounts.

Scammers will state that they have sold an item on Ebay but cannot receive payment because they do not have a PayPal account. They request that the payment be sent via the message recipient's PayPal account before being transferred to an account controlled by the fraudster. Once this has been done, the original transaction is reversed and the PayPal account is left in negative balance.

Again, residents are urged to update their PayPal password information and if possible, turn on two-factor authentication (using another method to verify it is you).
